In a parallel universe far, far away...

Salvador Dali, the great surreal artist, the ‘savour of paintings’ has risen from the dead today. He has crept out of his grave and he is not happy to see anything around him at all. The world and the future did not turn out how he had imagined it. He is upset to see the cold and emotionless steel and glass buildings everywhere! He is so upset that his pointed moustaches are sizzling and quivering with fury. He wants to ‘re-do’ the whole world and wants a team of architects and artists to work with him.

He wants to start re-building the world and wants to make a new house himself as the first step.

The idea here for this competition is to design a house for Dali, anywhere in the world (at the site of your choice) with the kind of art philosophies that he believed in.

The house should have the following spaces –

- 1 bed room
- Kitchen
- Dining space
- 2 Guest rooms
- 1 studio
- And everything that you think should be there in his house
